JOSEPH DANIEL "MCCLOZKEY"

Contemporary Artist

MCCLOZKEY (Joseph Daniel Mcclozkey) utilizes Roman numeral encryption on a T9 keypad to transform language into intricate patterns of numeric code, reminiscent of hieroglyphics. This innovative approach invites viewers to explore hidden messages in his work.

His portfolio features a dynamic range of pieces, from vibrant abstracts to refined monochromatic works, inspired by interior design and contemporary artists. Joseph's art has gained recognition in collections across the Hamptons and the U.S.

In 2023, he partnered with Porsche, completing significant commissions for the company's President. His artwork is also displayed in healthcare organizations and corporate settings, often commissioned by executives seeking to enhance their environments.

Joseph's mission is to enrich lives through creativity, fostering connections and meaningful dialogue in every project.

LOVE LANGUAGE STYLE

Joseph's unique pattern, known as "love language", is characterized by the repeated use of Roman numerals. This cryptic form of expression involves translating words, quotes, and personal journal entries into numeric code using a T9 cellphone keypad, where each number corresponds to a letter. The resulting compositions often resemble intricate bodies of text or hieroglyphics. When utilizing abstract backgrounds, each one is unique with fluid brush strokes, skillfully depicting the delicate balance between chaos and order. Each work captures the raw emotion we experience in life, telling stories rooted in love, psychology and personal experience.

JOSEPH DANIEL MCCLOZKEY

MCCLOZKEY MODERN ART
OWNER

In the heart of the contemporary art world, Joseph Daniel McClozkey, owner of MCCLOZKEY Modern Art, has brought creative life to Philadelphia's residential and commercial spaces. His passion for creating began with his appreciation of professional artists, who paved the way for artistry to be a career. This appreciation would later inspire the birth of his unique art styles: "Growth" and "Love Language."

His "Growth" series draws inspiration from individuals who persevered despite uncertainty. On the other hand, "Love Language" taps into the raw emotions that are part of everyone's everyday lives. These works, McClozkey says, "help me connect with clients on a personal level."

For McClozkey, being a man of influence means investing in oneself, taking risks and embracing the process of growth. "It's about embodying persistence through life's adversities," he says. His art reflects this perspective, with each piece offering more than just a visual experience—it's an invitation to converse, collaborate and create something deeply personal.

His defining success, however, comes from his belief in relationships. "The best advice I've ever received is that relationships are everything," McClozkey says. This principle has led to a flourishing business where custom creations are made to reflect the imagination and desires of each client.

Looking ahead, McClozkey is diving into his next venture, a YouTube series called Art Studio Diaries. Through this, he hopes to connect with others while documenting his journey, showcasing his artistic processes and building new relationships.

GROWTH STYLE

Joseph's Growth paintings symbolize personal development across various life dimensions—career, spiritual, financial, social, physical, and intellectual. Each piece reflects the belief that growth is a responsibility for those willing to seek and act upon it. These works remind us that everyone has the potential for growth, regardless of their circumstances, similar to the motivational quotes in his workspace, such as "Love the discipline you know, and let it support you." Through his art, Joseph highlights that continuous growth leads to deeper self-understanding, enriching our lives and emphasizing the importance of daily progress for a fulfilling present and a brighter future.
